DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

The claim(s) are narrative in form and replete with indefinite and functional or operational language. The structure which goes to make up the device must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. The claim(s) must be in one sentence form only. Note the format of the claims in the patent(s) cited.

3. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is not clear the scope of the claim based on the Applicant's specification.
4. The following rejections are based on the best understanding of the claimed limitations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3744

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
6. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowman (U.S. Patent Number 5,339,859) in view of Gill (U.S. Patent Number 4,922,943).

Bowman discloses a water conservation system. Referring to the figure, the system comprises a water supply 20, water heater 16, hot water diverting conduit 34, thermostatically controlled valve 30, storage tank 32, pressure reducing valve 26 and check valve 28. In regard to controller, the microprocessor control, the thermostatically control and relay control are scientific equivalent in the prior art with appropriate substituting of valve and sensor. The using on cold water or hot water system is a user choice and has no weight on the claims because there is no change on the apparatus. However, Bowman does not disclose water level sensor. Gill discloses water level sensor in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of sensing water level. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Bowman with a sensor in view of Gill so as to sense water level. The applicant should also note that a change in the shape/size of a prior art device is a design consideration within the skill of the art. In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966).

Art Unit: 3744

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claim 6 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Vataru et al. (U.S. Patent Number 4,160,461) and Walsh (U.S. Patent Number 5,261,443) are made of record as relevant prior art of water conservation system.
